

Leading the Future of Learning

As the world around us changes at an unprecedented pace, education leaders have an opportunity to innovate now to create a future that supports every learner.

You can take action now to shape the future of learning. Ask yourself:

360 Degree Learners

How can we educate the whole person and enable lifelong learning that supports academic and social-emotional growth?

The Whole, and the Sum of Its Parts

How can we personalize learning in community, reorienting education around learners while strengthening society?

Elastic Structures

How can we create flexible approaches to learning and coordination that respond to learners' needs?

Innovation with Intent

How can we ground systems change in equity, including and supporting underserved learners?

The New A+

How can we renegotiate definitions of success, examining what education systems aim to achieve and who gets to say?
